

10

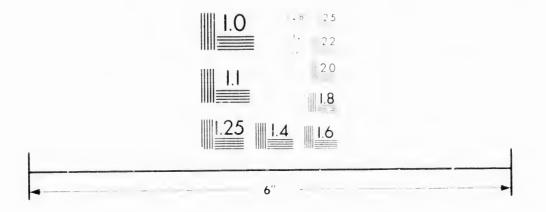

لعر .

1

E

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences Corporation

23 WEST MAIN STREET WEBSTER N Y 14580 {716 872-4503 q

CIHM/ICMH Microfiche Series. CIHM/ICMH Collection de microfiches.

Canadian Institute for Historical Microreproductions / Institut canadien de microreproductions historiques

Technical and Bibliographic Notes. Notes techniques et bibliographiques

The Institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique which may alter any of the images in the reproduction or which may significantly change the usual method of filming are checked below

Coloured pages Coloured covers. Pages de couleur Couverture de couleur Pages damaged Covers damaged Pages endommagees Couverture endommagee Pages restored and or laminated Covers restored and or laminated Pages restaurees et ou pelliculees. Couverture restauree et ou pelliculee Pages discoloured stained or foxed Cover title missing Pages decolorees tachetees ou piquees Pages detached Coloured maps Pages detachees Cartes géographiques en couleur Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or black Showthrough Transparence Encre de couleur (i é autre que bleue ou noire) Coloured plates and, or illustrations-Quality of print varies. Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur Qualite inégale de l'impression Includes supplementary material Bound with other material: Comprend du materiel supplementaire Relié avec d'autres documents Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion Only edition available Seule edition disponible along interior margin/ La reliure serree peut causer de l'ombre ou de la distortion le long de la marge intérieure. Pages wholly or partially obscured by errata slips tissues etc. have been refilmed to Blank leaves added during restoration may ensure the best possible image appear within the text. Whenever possible, these Les pages totalement ou partiellement have been omitted from filming/

Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutées lors d une restauration apparaissent dans le texte mais lorsque cela était possible ces pages n'ont pas ete filmées

Additional comments if

Commentaires supplementaires

L'Institut a microfilme le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut etre uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une mage reproduite ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la methode normale de filmage sont indigues ci dessous

- obscurcies par un feuillet d'errata une pelure etc - ont été filmees à nouveau de facon a obtenir la meilleure image possible

26X 30 X 18X 22 X 14X 10 X 32 X 28X 24X 16 X 20 X 12X

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/ Ce document est filme au taux de reduction indique ci dessous The pythone can be an or the terms of the second se at in the solution

The made approximation of the test of the distribuphonological statement the and the mathematical teof the original statement of the events of which the formers provided in the statement of the

In provide the instruction  $\mathbf{u}_{i}$  is the last case of the last case with the last case  $\mathbf{u}_{i}$  is the last

The estimated for the entire transmission of the shall contain the series of the entire end of ON the UED of the symbol  $\nabla$  endaming END which ever approximated as the statement of the transmission of transmiss

Maps plates that the may be filled debifterent reduction rules. These tools lege to be entirely included as on exposure in e-filmed beginning in the upper left hand corrier left toright and top to bottom as many fricties in required. The following that is contract the method.

2

a popular a second a a second a s

1

itails s du oditier

GINE.

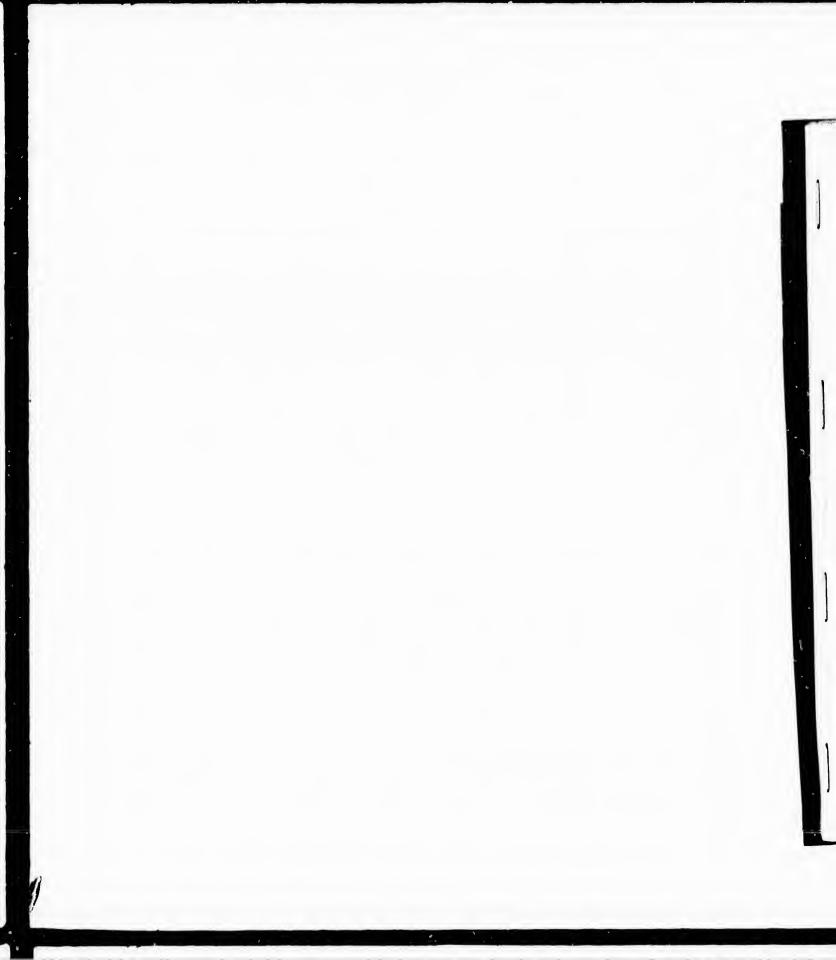

made

pelure on a

32 X

3

S T A T E

OFTHE

.....

15.6

PUBLIC DEBTS,

AND OF THE

ANNUAL INTEREST AND BENEFITS PAID FOR THEM;

ASTHEY WILL STAND ON THE 5th OF JAN UARY, 1783,

As they will fland (if the War continues) on the . 5th of JANUARY, 1784.

TO WHICH THE ATTENTION of the PUBLIC is HUMBLY REQUESTED, BEFORE THEY DECIDE AS TO PEACE OR WAR.

THOUGHTS on the EXTENT to which the STATE may be BENEFITED by OECONOMY;

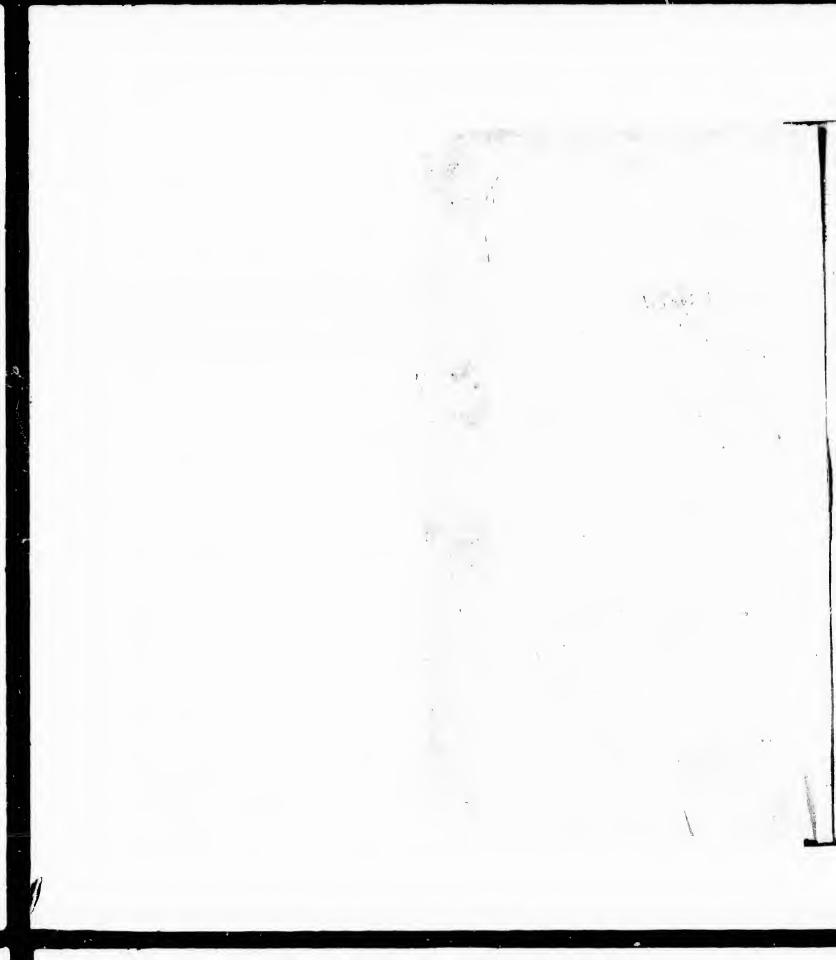

AND A FEW REFLECTIONS on the CONDUCT and MERIT of the PARTIES contending for POWER.

By JOHN EARL of STAIR.

Sunt lachryme rerum.

D U B L I N: Printed for P. BYRNE, No. 35, COLLEGE-GREEN, opposite the Statue of King William. MDCCLXXXIII.

たみ ー・

wei das b a seben en seben an beb an ben ben be b b beb er

STATE

OFTHE

PUBLIC DEBTS, &c.

OUR late political changes, though they do not appear to have ferved any other very material public purpofe, have at leaft afforded us the confolation of knowing, that there is no fituation of public affairs fo defperate, as to preclude the administration of them from being fought after, and embraced with the most eager avidity.

Our prefent men in power, after reprobating in the firongeft and most unequivocal terms the war, as a contest too unequal to promife even a possibility of fuccefs, have rushed into the public administration without having concluded, or, as far as I can fee, having any probable hopes of concluding a peace. After their frequent, indeed their never-ceafing declarations, that fo enormous was our military expence, that even fuccefs might protract but could not prevent our ruin, they have undertaken the government, and continued the war, without materially diminishing the expense of it; without even having it in their power to do fo : for the war, on our part, being almost entirely defensive, the state and limits of expence A 2 expense are in the option and power of our enemics, not in ours.

[ 4 ]

WHAT new lights, power, place, and emolument, may have given, I know not; nor on what fair grounds of honeft candour they difpoffelfed thofe who neither defpaired of our fuccefs nor of our refources (and for whom I am in other refpects no advocate), and poffelfed themfelves of their public fituations, without either the will, or at leaft without the power, (and as to the argument, it is alike which is wanting) of materially altering that fyftem, which in their predeceffors hands they had fo often declared abfurd and ruinous.

Poor, inconfiderable, and unavailing as my diffent may be, yet I will not be included nor concluded by a conduct fo glaringly inconfiftent, to fay no worfe of it. I muft ftill declare, that every thing I have offered to the public confideration on the ruinous and defperate fituation of our finances and refources, ftill exifts, goes on, and gathers force in its progrefs to ruin. I muft ftill, from the fame facts, caufes, and inducements, which I have already ftated to the public, and to which every hour adds ftrength, pronounce the abfolute neceffity of a peace.

THE experience of the time that has elapfed fince my laft publication, and, above all, the facts authenticated by the report from the committee of the houfe of commons appointed to enquire into the actual ftate of our finances, have made most of what I then offered to the public as well-founded conjecture, now matter of truth, reality, and proof. A report from a committee of the houfe of commons unanimously appointed, framed, though without prefum tion .

of our chemics,

nd emolument, on what fair fpoffefied thofe nor of our rerefpects no adneir public fituaeaft without the alike which is ftem, which in o often declared ng as my diffent or concluded by to fay no worfe y thing I have the ruinous and d refources, ftill a its progrefs to ts, caufes, and ated to the pubftrength, procc.

has elapfed fince I, the facts aucommittee of the nquire into the de moft of what founded conjecand proof. A fe of commons though without prefumition prefumption or pretention, yet, with great ability, opennels, perfpicuity, impartiality, and candour, annihilates every weak or interefted argument against the propriety of difcloting to the world the real frate of our internal fituation and refources.

[ 5 ]

INDEED, without this aid, fo conclusive to the point in queftion, from what is, and muit constantly, from the nature of our confliction, be haid before parliament, none but thofe who are too dull to underftand, or thofe who are too indolent to take the trouble of a very fimple and eafy investigation and deduction, need want any material information as to the true state of the nation; and to perfore of these deferiptions no information whatever will be of any use. I mean therefore to adduce what additional facts have occurred in proof of the two propositions I haid down in the pamphlet I published in the beginning of this year.

THE propositions are :

ift. THAT the demands on the public from the creditors of the public would, on the 5th of January 1783, amount to fifteen millions annually, near money.

2d. THAT there are the most probable inducements to believe, that the neat annual revenue of this country can never be brought for a permanency, and average of years, to exceed twelve millions.

I MEAN likewife to confider, and to give fome outlines of conjecture to what extent it may reach, and what relief may be expected to the public from OECONOMY, the chymic gold that pays the debts of every administration; and to conclude with a few reflections reflections that may arife out of thefe fubjects, on the incrits and conduct of the parties contending for power; which shall be made with that freedom and impartiality that are at all times becoming in an honeft and independent man; and are now, in thefe times of delution and danger, a duty incumbent on him.

[ 6 ]

In the profecution of thefe objects, I fhall, firft, ogain lay before the public an account fubmitted to them in my laft publication. By crediting the public with what I have over-flated, or omitted to credit, in this account; and by debiting the public with what I have under-flated, or omitted to debit the public with in it; the refult, I think, will enable me to give a nearly proved and vouched flate of the nation, as it will fland on the 5th of January 1783.

ACCOUNT No. I.

To interest of the debt incurred and funded before the war To interest of the funded debt of the	L4,220,000
war, to 1781 inclusive To civil lift establishment, prefent and	2,500,000
contingent	1,200,000
'To peace establishment	4,300,000

£12,220,000

Debt contracted in and previous to 1781, waiting for funds.

Navy debt on the	31ft	100 million (100 million)
December 1781		£11,000,000
Exchequer Bills		3,400,000
Ditto to the bank	•	2,000,000

1,16,400,000

Debts

fubjects, on the contending for hat freedom and ng in an honeft o, in thefe times abent on him.

s, I fhall, firft, nt fubmitted to liting the public nitted to credit, he public with ed to debit the , will enable me tate of the nanuary 1783.

. I.

£4,220,000 2,500,000 1,200,000 4,300,000 £12,220,000

1781, waiting

Debts

[7]

Debts that must be contracted for 1782.

£17,000,000 The loan Extraordinaries of fea 10,000,000 and land Arrear and winding up 9,000,000 of the war Total unfunded debt, and what funded or unfunded must be 1,52,400,000 incurred for 1782 Of which £52,400,000 only fifty millions to keep within bounds are charged to the public at an interest of 51 per cent. which, the expence at the bank included, makes yearly On a fuppolition that a peace is concluded in 1782, the annual charge on the public on the 5th January 1783, exclusive of collection and management, will be of neat money

£15,020,000

1,2,800,000

ACCOUNT No. II.

The public is creditor for the following fums overflated, or omitted to be credited, in Account No 1.

- The extraordinaries for 1781, for fea and land, having amounted only to f..9,481,844; if thefe in 1782 amount to no more (and it is likely they will not) being ftated to amount to f..10,000,000, they are therefore probably over-rated
- N. B. This over-flatement arifes from the extraordinaries of the army having, contrary to all precedent in the progretiion of the war, decreafed a trifle in 1781, inftead of advancing; but I fuspect this has happened from, either by accident or defign, their nor being

£518,156

being fairly brought forward; for from the report of the committee of the haufe of commons, it appears, that 1.1 092,243 was paid for the extraordinaries for two months, from the 1ft of February 1782 to the 5th of the April following. I therefore recreilit this fum with hefitation and doubt, for part of the above ant-of-proportion valt fum nult undoulitedly have been paid for debis incurred in (78).

8

- Ta carried from the fupplies 1782, towards the difcharge of the navy deht, an the 31ft of December 1781, amitted to be credited
- 1,1,500,000 The loan being flated at f. 17,000,009 and the fum horrawed being anly 1.13,500,000, over-flated in account No. 1.

Total over-flated and omitted in acconnt Na L. . . .

3,500,000 £5,518,156

ACCOUNT No. III.

The public is delitur to fums not drawn out againft it in Account No. I. to the fums omitted in that account, to fervices unprovided for, and to the halance of fervices defectively provided for.

To allowance made in account mumber 1. on the unfunded deht, amounting to f. 52,400,000, of which only 50 millions are drawn ont and stated against the public . To debt of the civil lift, for which the public is liable, in the first place To ordnance debt and debentures, which on the 5th of January 1783 may at least be stated at .

300,000 1,000,000

1,2,400,000

The

	f
	1,500,000
	1 400 000
	3,500,000
•	15,518,156

. 111.

wn out againft it mitted in that ac-, and to the baled for.

nh d - f_2,400,000 h se 300,000 '3 - 1,000,000 'The 193

The growing produce of the linking fund being taken to the toth of Octoher 1782 for f.2,284,715, and ir having only produced for the half year ending the 5th of April 1782, f.670,760, and double this furn heing thought 3 liberal allowance for that half year ending on the teth of October 17823 after allowing the half year's difference of Interest on 31 per Cent, reduced to 3 per Cent, it will be taken for more than it will probably produce

- To deficiency of funds not confolidated with the finking fund, the tame as in 1781
- To deficiency of the funds for 1782, hy the intereft running to long before the taxes are laid, or made productive

To deficiency of grants for 1782, the ways and means after deducting the lottery prizes, and only £.400,000 for the deficiency of the land and malt taxes, exceeding the fupplies in no more than / 11,009

- To intereft on exchaquer bills To annual expense of exchequer bill office
- To the bank of England, for receiving, paying, and accounting for the loan To difeount on prompt payment of the
- Ioan To the navy debt, frated in account number I to anionneoidy on the 3 ril
- December 1781 to f.11,000,000, whereas it amount to f.11,318 [450, understated therefore

Carried over

в

474,528

931,945

350,000

200,000 313,014 3,888

10,669

80,000

318,45% 6,384,494

10

[ 10 ]

Brought over	1.6,384,494
'I o received from the Eaft India Company, which must be repaid to the Company	.100,000
The total balance with which the public is to be debited, amounts to -	16,784,494
Total amount of the funts with which the public is to be credited per account No. II. is -	5,518,156
Balance by which the public debt	} ,,,,,,,,,,,, unfunded and funded in 1782, will exceed the 50 millions drawn out 6
against the public in account No. I.	£1,266,338

THIS authenticates, and in a manner proves, the fifty millions flated against the public in account No. J. with the above balance over ; all but the nine millions stated as the arrear and winding-up of the war, which cannot be liquidated till a peace takes place. It is however prefumed, this cannot vary much from; at leaft cannot exceed, the truth, being fomething lower, as will appear by account No. V. than the generally received calculation that the arrear and windingup of the war is equal to half a year's expence of the war, without mentioning the large demands from our German mercenaries at the conclusion of the war, to which treaties very loofely worded give extent and countenance.

ACCOUNT No. IV.

HAVING now cleared my way, I fhall proceed to ftate the national debt as it will ftand on the 5th of January 1783, and the interest that is, or will be to be paid for it. The capital debt (as none of it can ever be expected to be paid) is, I am afraid, but a mere matter of curiofity; though I could with it to bc

1,6,384,194

.100,000

16,784,494

5,518,156

£1,266,338

er proves, the account No. J. e nine millions of the war, ce takes place. ry much from; ing fomething 7. than the ger and windingexpence of the demands from ion of the war, ve extent and

IV.

all proceed to on the 5th of or will be to none of it can afraid, but a uld with it to bc

[ 11 ]

6

be a matter of ferious reflection ; and on that account have flated it.

The funded debt on the 5th of Ja- nuary 1783, amounts to The value of £.980,338 of annuities given as premiums, fome for life, iome for terms of years, at, or un- der the prices they fell at, may be	£197,325,500
The balance of unfunded debt, after deducting from the $f_{.50,000,000}$ charged against the public in account No. 1. the $f_{.13,500,000}$ funded in 1782, and adding the balance of $f_{.1,266,338}$ , over the firty millions,	13,700,000
as per account No. III. is Borrowed on the 6d. in the pound	37,765,338
civil lift duty	1,000,000
Equivalent to Scotland	248,550
Total capital debt on the 5th January 1783 For which is, or will be to paid a: public,	£250,040,388 public,
Intereft of debt already funded - Intereft on the million borrowed on the	£7,481,311
civil lift 6d. duty Intereft on the Scotch equivalent, and f2,000 paid yearly to Scotch Fifth-	30,000 cries, &c. Intereft on the above £.37,766,338 nufunded debt, at 54 per cent.	12,000
charges at the bank included, nearly	2,100,000

The charges at the bank on loans 1781 and 1782, not yet allowed, nearly

B ?

15,000

Total

· : ۲

> i į

いの男が男

"Jotal to be paid annually to the creditors of the public, on the 5th Ja-	9,638,311
The civil lift and peace cftablifiments will require annually, as per account	5,500,000
No. 1. Total annual charge on the public on on 5th of January 1783, near money	1,15,138,311 on strior january 1703, near none)

ï 12 T

'fue aroual charge here flated is pretty confiderably larger than that flated in account No. I. This arifes from the interest on the million borrowed an the civil lift 6d.; from the intereft on the equivalent to Scotland; the 2000l. yearly to the Scotch Fifheries and manufacturers; from the interest on the £1,266,338 over the fifty millions being fiated here, though they were not in account No. I.; and to the £13,500,000 funded in 1782 being borrowed at an Interest above 51 per Cent. There are additions, which are fomething diminished by the falling-in of life-annuities.

IT is believed the account is now just, or fo to a trifle. If fo, and if the annual neat amount of the publie revenue cannot be brought to rife higher than twelve millions, (and we think we fhall in the fequel fhew that there is no great probability that it will rife higher, as government muft be carried on) the whole of the deficiency must fall on the creditors of the public, who, initead of receiving annually £9,638,311 will only receive 16,500,000, or 138. 6d. in the Pound.

N. P. The civil lift and peace eftablifhments, to the amount they are flated at, is accounted for in my Pamphlet entitled, " Facts, and their confequences;" to I do not trouble the public with repetitions.

ACCOUNT

9,638,311

5,500,000

1,15,138,311

bretty confideratit No. I. This on borrowed on i the equivalent e Scotch Fifheintereft on the being frated here, o. I.; and to the borrowed at an ere are additions, the falling-in of aft, or fo to a triount of the pubhigher than twelve the fequel fhew t it will rife highon) the whole of ors of the public, 9,638,311 will onn the Pound.

bliftiments, to the unted for in my cir confequences;" repetitions.

ACCOUNT

[ 13 ]

ACCOUNT No. V.

SHOULD we be compelled to continue the way for smother year, it may be fairly prelumed the chargewill not be lefs for 1783 than it was for 1782. If io, the public account will fland on the 5th of January 1784, as follows:

Deficiency of finds as per account No. 111, for 1783, by the in- tereft running before the taxes commence, or at leaft can be made productive - 350,000 Deficiency of grants as per account No. 111. 200,000	To the loan as in 1782 Provisions omitted, or tho fective funds taken for they will produce in 178 Balance of the debt of the allowing the $f_{-1,500,00}$ towards it from the fupp The whole increafe for the year ending the 31ft of Dec. 1781, being $f_{-4,145,722}$ . Balance therefore is The finking fund taken for more than it will produce as per ac- count No. 111, cre- diting half a year more of the differ- ence gained by the re- duction of the $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent to 3 per cent	more than 2 navy, after 00 carried lies'1782	( ,,,,,,,,
Deficiency of grants as per account No. 111. 200,020	Deficiency of finds as per account No. III, for 1783, by the in- tereft running before the taxes commence, or at leaft can be per account No. 111. 200,000	made productive - Deficiency of grants as per account No. 1il.	200,000

Carried over Logaria, 117

Intereis

р. Е.	1.1 ]
Brought over	14,112,417
Intereft on exchequer
bills, as per account No. III.	71 - 1 1
Exchequer bill office,	31 5501.4
as per ditto -	3,888
To the bank of England
for receiving the loan, &c. as per ditto	10,669
To difcount on prompt	10,009
payment of the loan,
as per ditto	80,000
-	1

J.		,5	2	1,	98	8
-	-	-	-		_	-

Total new debt, that must be contract-	4,521,988
if the war continues during 1783	L.18,021,988
Intereft on 18 millions only; at 6 per Cent. Charges at the Bank on 18 millions,	£. 1,080,000
nearly	11,000
the public (if the war continues) on the 5th of January 1784	£.1,091,000
Capital debt on the 5th of January 1783, was per account No. IV Addition, if the war continues during	£250,040,000
1783	18,021,988
Total capital debt on the 5th of Janu- ary 1784	£.268,061,988
Intereft payable to the creditors on the 5th of January 1783, per account
No. IV	£.9,638,311
ed, if the war continues for 1783	1,091,000
To the creditors of the public, on the 5th of January 1784	£.10,729,311 To

13,5 10,000

13,510,000

[ 15 ]

Brought over L. To the amount of the peace and civil lift citablifhments, per account No.1.

£.:0,729,311 5,500,000

Total annual charge of near money on the public, if the war continues for 1-33 - - - - - /

1.16,229,311

Which, on the more than probable fuppolition, that the public revenue cannot on a permanency, and average of years, be brought to exceed 12 millions near annually; the creditors in that cafe, in place of  $f_{2}$ :(0,729,311 will receive annually only  $f_{2}$ :6,500,000, or 123. Id. in the pound.

THE foregoing accounts must certainly strike every thinking mind with aftonifliment, and apprehention for the confequences. They are, indeed, more like unto the feverith dreams of mad fpeculation, than unto the real unexaggerated ftate of the finances of a wife, inquiring, philosophical people. And, in truth, without fome one or other of the illustrious competitors for the management of the treafures of this opulent country have, amongst their other great acquirements, of which we hear fo much, got polfellion of the grand feeret, the great work, the Philef pher's fime (and I do not know that any them have as yet urged that plea) I cannot fee how they are to go on. Ridicule may, perhaps, do more, at leaft I am fure it cannot do lefs, than ferious admonition has done.

A VIRICE and credulity may promife any thing, on extrata_ant terms being offered; but in the event of public misfortune, or even on the change of the caprice of public opinion, how are they to make good their promifes? if they fail in time of war, the worft of ruins, anarchy enfues. In time of peace, the public not

4,521,988

£. 1,080,000

11,000

£.1,091,000

(250,040,000

18,021,988

268,061,988

1.9,638,311

1,001,000

10,729,311 To

[ 16 ]

not being able to completely fulfil their engagements to their creditors, will be a great calmity; but will not, I hope, endanger the fafety of the flate. Indeed, mon of the few public creditors who look beyoud the price of the day, ice that this laft event must needlarily happen foon. The funds are now kept up at the rates they are at, only by an idea, to generally prevalent, that peace muft be at hand, becaufe we are no longer able to go on with the war; and confequently, as has generally happened on a prace, there will be a great rife in the value of government fecurities, which every-body hopes by felling out to profit by; not reflecting, that if all croud to market with their flock at one time, the quantity on file exceeding, as it needs muft, the demand, the price cannot advance.

Not having by me here juft all the heavy luggage of authenticity, I may poffibly have made fome fmall errors in my figures; but I apprchend, if any, they are triffing, and (the extent of the fums confidered) of no importance; at leaft, not of confequence to affect or alter the conclutions that muft be drawn from what I have here fubmitted to the public.

In the fums that are anticipated, and confequently in fome degree conjectural at prefent, the errors, which cannot be confiderable, will, I apprehend, nearly balance each other; and I dare, I think, pledge myfelf to the public, at leaft on the general balance, not to have exceeded the truth. Any information or corrections i fhall receive with gratinde, and, on conviction, acknowledge them in the beft manner, viz. by correcting my errors.

I was defirons to flate these matters to the public as early as I could, to avoid having their prejudices and their engagements calimity; but will of the flate. Inlitors who look bethat this laft event he funds me now only by an idea, fo onf be at hand, beon with the war; ly happened on a i the value of goody hopes by felling hat if all eroud to be, the quantity on c, the demand, the

If the heavy luggage we made fome finall whend, if any, they he fums confidered) t of confequence to hat muft be drawn to the public.

ad, and confequently prefent, the errors, will, I apprehend, d I dare, I think, leaft on the general ac truth. Any inforreceive with gratitude, ge them in the beft prors.

natters to the public ving their prejudices and

[ 17 ]

and prepoficilions to combat with; and to prevent the nfoal an wer from ministers, that plans are formed, and information comes too late.

THROUGH the whole of the figures and calculations already flated, or to be flated to the public, I have endeavoured, much as was poflible in a fubicit of fluch vaft extent and intricacy, to join together fimplicity and conviction, convictnets and clearners, which confittute the true fublime in matters of account. The public will judge how near I have approached to the perfection I aim at. If I have abfolitely failed, I thould be affiamed to mention the trouble and pains the attempt has coft me. _

I SHALL now proceed to frate the probabilities on which I prefame, that the neat annual revenue of the nation can never durably and permanently, for an average of years, be brought to exceed twelve millions. Of these probabilities the review is very flort, no year previous to that ending on the 10th of October 1781, having ever produced, or even very nearly approached to, the fum of twelve millions neat money. The produce of that year is as follows:

ACCOUNT No. IV.

Neat produce of the public revenue from the 10th October 1780, to the 19th of October 1781.

To the funded creditors of the public
before the war	£.4,211,500
To the funded creditors fince the war, only one half-year of the intereft of the debt contracted in 1781 being paid in this period	2,146,680
To the civil lift establishment -	900,000
't'o produce of the finking fund -	2,988,115
C	to

	In	.1

11

To near produce of land and malt taxes at the utmost	4,350,000
Total produce of the year ending on the 10th of October 1781 Deduct one year's deficiency of the	12,596,531
taxes not confolidated with the finking fund	474,529
Neat produce of the year ending on the 10th of October 1781	12,122,002

Mean, I acknowledge, is a finall balance; but management or accident was the caufe of it, anot durable. In the next quarter end-, th of January 1782, initead of a furplus is a deficiency ; and the half year ending the April 1782, did not produce fo much as the , car ending the 5th of April 1781 by £.374,673. ... is decifive against 1782, and the feanty crop of des reaped in 1782; of barley, on which onewirth of the revenue depends; gives two wellgrounded apprehenfions, that the revenue of 1783 will fuffer great diminutions. Indeed, the general tituation of the country, and the fearcity of grain apprehended, deferves the ferions confideration of the public, and of individuals.

I AM well aware, that the inability of the East-India company to pay up their duties, was in a great part the caufe of this great falling-off of the revenue in the current year. But certainly nothing favourable can be inferred from thence. In every edifice, the weakeft parts are the first that give way. However fully government may be employed, they must of neceflity look in the face the difficulties, and efponfe with vigour and effect the caufe, of the Eaft-India company.

male
11.416	1 3 1 3 3 8 3
-	2,350,080
g on 12,596,531
the
the
•	474,529
g on
•	12,122,002
	-

finall balance; but t was the caufe of it, he next quarter endinitead of a furplus half year ending the uce fo much as the 1781 by £.374,673. d the feanty crop of -ley, on which ones; gives two wellne revenue of 1783 Indeed, the general he fearcity of grain ous confideration of inability of the Eaftluties, was in a great lling-off of the revetainly nothing favourcc. In every edifice, t give way. However ployed, they muft of fliculties, and efpoufe fe, of the Eaft-India company. [ 19 ] company. They will require other and very powerful aids from parliament, befides the good advice they are to liberal of to them. If their affairs go to ruin, or even fuffer any very great check or diminution, our fystem of finance is at an end. The company's duties having, on the most moderate calculation for many years path, produced full L.1,200,000 yearly; and directly, or circuitoully, their fervants, and those connected with them or their fervants, are supposed for a great number of years to have remitted into this country about four miliions fterling yearly; and this, together with fo much of what was expended on the war, circulating amongft ourfelves; and the valuable captures made by our flips of war and privateers in the beginning of the war with France and Spain, and afterwards at the commencement of the war with Holland, all of which in a manner were almost instantaneously vested in our funds; have been the great fources that have enabled government to raife the enormous fums that they have raifed on the public.

I Now come to our laft refonence, our laft appeal, the promifed land of æconomy, which, narrow and barren as it may prove, I am afraid many of us will never live to poffels.

I AM not mafter enough of the detail of the navy, to fay whether any reform in the expence of it is neceffary or not; but no complaints being made, it may fairly be prefumed that there is no foundation for any.

Is the army, as in the church, the fum total, I believe, is not too much, but the divition of it is highly partial and unjuft. The expensive establishment is gept  $C_2$  up

[ 20 ]

I up for those heaps of ruins nick-named fortreffes, and the giving those lucrative finecures, as they generally are given, to those who have already too much, are reproaches on government. The finns they cold should be formed into an establishment, to reward great and nable actions in war, and to affish milliary merit, when attended, as it too often is, by misfortune.

FROM the cloathing profits and other profits of the regiments, a competent allowance should be made to the communding officers who refide with their regiinents. From their care and affiduity, the moral and military character of the army, the good difcipline and the good behaviour of our troops, are principally formed; and yet, laborious and important as the truft is, no benefit is derived from it : on the contrary, men of spirit, in order to do credit to the corps they command, are forced into a fiyle and rate of living their pay will not afford, and too often by it are brought into difficulties and difficefs.

I MENTION only what is moft firiking; many other ufeful reformations in the army might be pointed out; but increase of revenue being my prefent object, which I think is not, at leaft to any extent, to be found there I quit the fubject.

THE whole fum paid by government, exclusive of what is paid to the navy and army (adverted to above) calculated from the produce of the fixpence in the pound which extends to all other payments, amounts to one million feven hundred and ten thoufand pounds yearly. Out of this fum the offices alone which exceed in income one hundred pounds yearly, are the objects of reform, the parliament having already, and I think with great juffice, exempted offices not producing fortreffes, and othey generally too much, are they coff flicadd ward great and ry merit, when rune.

er profits of the mild be made to with their regi-, the moral and good difeipline ops, are prineiad important as rom it : on the do credit to the a fiyle and rate I too often by it s.

ing; many other be pointed out; at object, which to be found there ent, exclusive of liveract to above) fixpence in the ments, amounts shoufand pounds alone which exyearly, are the ing already, and offices not producing ducing more than one hundred pounds yearly, from even the additional thilling in the pound which made part of the ways and means for 1758. Now the produce of the tax of one thilling in the pound on office exceeding one hundred pounds of yearly income, amounting in about forty thoufind pounds yearly, it follows that eight hundred thousand pounds yearly is the grafs fum upon which the reform is to operate ; from which deducting the judges falaries, appointments to foreign ministers, and fome other articles which do not admit of any diminution, the amount of which taken together will exceed two hundred thinsfand pounds yearly, it follows, that the real neat funt on which the operation of reform can take place, will at the utmost nat exceed fix hundred thoufand prunds yearly. And of this, were we to retrench one-third, or two hundred thouland pounds yearly. it certainly would be too fevere an amputation; fo about one hundred and fifty thouland pounds yearly is all that can be faved, was the reform to take place in its full extent: a poor object, furely, to be offered in defence of the continuance of a war, of which, alast it would not do much more than pay the inteselt of the fum that mult be borrowed to carry it on for only fix weeks, as may be feen in the account No. V. inbinitted to the public in the foregoing part of this performance.

[ 21 ]

The only true, the only real  $\infty$  conomy is prace; a temperate, calm adminification; a wife forbearance, and a fready contempt for popular clamonr, ever ready to plunge the nation into war, and ftill more ready to repine at the calainities infeparable from war. War and  $\infty$  conomy are incompatible; they cannot, may often they ought not to afforiate together. The true feience of war is to make it graffe et courte, thort and powerful sowerful. Two bad, ftarved, niggardly campaigne will colt greatly more than one of the beit-fupported, and of the most brilliant fuccefs; and will only ferve to retard, instead of promoting, the only realty just object of war, a fafe and an bonourable peace, which the other in a manner fecures.

2

[ 22 ]

HAD the object they purfued been attainable, the late minifters certainly deferved well of the public, for the great and unparalleled attention with which they fupported the war in America; which, though in a country fo remote, and in fituations fo fuljected to the accidents and variations of climate, of wind and of weather, never fuffered from the want of any neceffary fupplies. Even the navy, of the neglect and mifimanagement of which we heard fo much, has by the glorious effort on the 12th of April, of fuperior fkill, courage and preparation, refuted every rafh afperfion; and thould in fo far reftore the noble Lord who lately prefided over it to the public gratitude and eiteem.

ALTHOUGH the relief accommy can give is very finall, if confidered relatively to the houndlets expences we are at prefent involved in ; and though I have thought it neceffary to facer and altertain its nervow bounds and extent, in order that the extravagant and delutive boafts of minifters of the effects it will produce under their adminiftration, may meet with the contempt that they deferve; yet I am far, very far from meaning to to diffeourage the practice of it. It is a duty government owe to the reft of their fubjects, flaggering under the load and weight of a multiplicity of taxes, to fupprefs, or at leaft to bring within moderate bounds, thofe enormous finecures, that throw a too great always, ly campaigne nt-fupported, ill only ferve y reaily juft peace, which nainable, the f the public, h with which hich, though s fo fubjected nate, of wind e want of any he neglect and much, has by l, of fuperior ed every rafh he noble Lord ; gratitude and n give is very addets expenses I have thought harrow bounds ant and delutive produce under contempt that om meaning to a duty governftaggering unty of taxes, to aderate bounds, a too great always,

[ 23 ]

always, and too often an unmerited wealth into the hands of a few individuals 1 fineences which frequently owe the extravagant advance of their profits to the public calamities, and prepofteroufly increase initead of diminishing by the necessities of the state. They are hatchal to the people; and by the happrefling or moderating of them, government would acquire the beft and moft definable of all returns, the confidence, the gratitude, and good-will of the public. But thould any tong material or effential be meant to he done in this metter, I an much of opinion, that it muft be accomplathed by general and peremptory refulutions of the parliament itfelf. Any inferior powers, infpection, or controul, will foon become, as they have ever done, a part of those very grievances they were meant to redrefs. Minifters, if well inremioned (which they feldom are) to go all lengths, have fearce ever a decided influence, majority, and weight fufficient to embolicn and to enable them toeradicated abufes, confirmed by long ufage into right, and fupported by the powerful influence of the poffeffors and their adherents.

A MONGET the many very figacious maxims and reflections in the reports from the commiffioners of of accounts, none firike me more forcibly, than thofe which inculcate the fimplifying the mode of accounting with the public; for certainly, of all accounts, the fimple one of debtor and creditor is the most fatisfactory. To what good end or purpose all thofe various officers, offices, and checks with firange names, have been eftablished at fo great an expence, which either directly or indirectly, comes out of the pocket of the public, I am intirely ignorant.

No?

[ 24 ]

Non from the reports already mentioned does ther. appear any particular benefit to have arifen to the public from them. If the advantages derived from them are not very great and uncontrovertible, they never can balance the harm that they do. The dread of the difficulties, the intricacies, and, above all, the delays in paffing accounts through thefe offices, make a proportionable indemnification attended to, and included in the price demanded for every thing to be furnished to government ; which even in peace creates a great lofs to the public ; and in a war, at the low effimation on the fums paid to the different contractors of one per cent. extraordinary, the lofs will amount to a very large fum, exclusive of the expence to the public of the offices themfelves. Surely, in the prefent improved flate of feience in figures and finance, fome mode might eafily be devifed, more fimple and equally fafe, for paffing the public accounts, without the great prejudice to the public flated above.

THOUGH more extensive operations of reform ought to take place, and though confiderable parts of what were promifed were left out, for no good reafons that I know of, yet the public gratitude and thanks are due to the promoters of the confiderable beginnings already made; of which we fhall be able to fpeak with more precision, when they are ultimately fettled and adjusted, and the extent of the fivings are liquidated and known; and when the causes of the difficiency in the civil lift eftablishment are investigated, and means fallen on to prevert any future accident of this kind; otherwife we may be faving farthings with one hand, whilst we are running pounds into debt with the other.

ŝ

NOR

does there en to the ived from tible, they lo. The nd, above efe offices, tended to, very thing in in peace a war, at e different y, the lofs of the exs. Surely, figures and ifed, more ic accounts, ated above.

of reform ble parts of good reaatitude and confiderable iall be able cy are ultitent of the en the caufes thment are vert any fuay be faving ning pounds

[ 25 ]

Nor ought we, perhaps, to neglect to offer our thanks, and to acknowledge with becoming gratitude the generofity of those gentlemen who have offered, and accepted of the fervice of the public at reduced prices; fo low, I think, one gentleman, as at four thousand pounds a-year hard money, and to name his deputy. To those who know the great abilities of the men, this will appear ferving the public for next to nothing; in the mercantile ftyle of advertifing, at the ready-money price, far below prime cost. But as the public, as well as individuals, may be hurt by buying pennyworths, I would not advise them to make many more fuch good bargains.

In truth, however great the merit of the propofer may be, a reform is introduced with no good grace by those who are to continue to possible offices infinitely more lucrative, and perhaps not much more efficient, than those that are to be abolished. One cannot help recollecting Ophelia's admonition to her brother Laertes:

But, good my brother, Do not as fome ungracious paftors do, Shew me the iteep and thorny way to Heaven; Whilft like a puft and carelefs libertine, Himfelf the primrofe path of dalliance treads, And recks not his own reed.

But the foregoing are, in the flate things just now are in, but very fubaltern confiderations: the prefling dangers of the public fituation demand far other aids. And in the tremendous crifis, nothing appears to me in any degree fo equal to the object in view, viz. the prefervation of the flate, as by a concurrence and declaration of the virtuous independent majority, (which I hope ftill fublift, at leaft in one of the houfes of D parliament) to afcertain and limit the terms of conceffion, the nation, to obtain a peace, will fubmit to. If thefe are refufed by the enemy, the parliament muft call on the public at large, to fupport with their lives and fortunes the independence of the nation, to fave or perifh with their country. Whatever is to be done, ought to be done fpeedily. By a defenfive war nothing can be gained; all may be loft.

į 26 ]

THIS year 1782 has been accounted rather a fortunate year; and the fuperiority of force employed againft us weighed and confidered, I think it has been fo: yet it is not yet expired ; and in it we have already loft the Iflands of Minorca, St. Chriftopher's, Nevis, and Montferrat; the Bahama Iflands; whatever we held by our Indian Allies, or by ourfelves, on the Spanish continent of America; together with our forts and territories in Hudfon's bay, and all our much boafted conquests to the fouthward of New York ; and by confequential reafoning New York itfelf foon to follow. Thefe, with independence granted to America, the indifpenfable requilite to every Negotiation for peace, might, either by the ceffion of them, or fomething equivalent to them, have gone a great way towards procuring a peace.

OUR fituation with our neighbouring kingdom of Ireland does not moreover improve, and promifes nothing but humiliating and dangerous alternatives to us; nor indeed to them, I think, all the folid profperity and comfort they expect from it; unlefs the felf-armed, felf-difciplined, hoft of Volunteers, who have hitherto behaved with fuch diftinguifhed order and propriety, can be induced (the end obtained for which they armed, as it nearly is), without force or bloodfhed, to fall back into the laborious, obfcure, rms of conwill fubmit r, the parliafupport with of the natry. Whatedily. By a may be loft.

ther a fortuemployed ak it has been have already her's, Nevis, whatever we ves, on the er with our all our much New York; ek itfelf foonranted to Ary Negotiatiion of them, gone a great kingdom of promifes noternatives to he folid prof-; unlefs the unteers, who nguifhed ore end obtainis), without the laborious, obscure,

[ 27 ]

obfcure, and unimportant fituations of life the mats of them at leaft advanced from: for till they Ly down their arms, all depends on the juft and generous way of thinking and acting of thofe, who may think and act otherwife if they fo pleafe; which, the follies and frailties infeparably connected with humanity confidered, is but a precarious tenure.—But I will not anticipate misfortune; yet certainly here is matter for meditation to all; but particularly, and in fome fort exclutively, to the noble lord now at the head of the Britifh councils, who is an Irifhman, and the bulk of whofe property is fituated in that country, where he does not refide.

BUT, above all, let us not again be the fools of our own over-heated imaginations, nor the dupes of the professions, that know no bounds, of the compelitors for power. Only a few fhort months have pafied, fince all was triumph, all was exultation. Like Moliere's Baur genis Gentilhomme, who at last found out he had been fpeaking profe all his life, without knowing any thing of the matter; we difcovered, that, without having in the leaft fufpected it, we had all our lives being living amongst the nost diffinguished fee of men that any age or country ever produced; amongft law-givers, heroes, and demigods, whofe virtues could only be furpafied by their transcendent abilities; and who being now called by the united voice of the people to the administration of public affairs, treated us from that very inftant the most powerful, and the most happy nation the fun ever shoue upon. The irrefiftible current of popular enthufiafm fwept into oblivion all former furmifes of fallhood, frailty, and inconfiftency of character in the bufinels of Anierica; all was perfect, all were faultlefs.

U 2

UNDER

[ 28 ]

UNDER credentials fo ample, our illustrious band of worthies proceeded to the fack of St. James's; which being accomplifhed, and all felfith covetoufnefs being dead and buried with Lord NORTH and his administration, they proceeded without loss of time to divide the plunder amongst themselves. Honours they beftowed profufely on each other, and emoluments of any confequence they parcelled out to the laft farthing ; all which they executed with great cordiality, and a due regard to diffributive juffice ; never forgetting at proper times to found each other's praise, and, above all, the matchlet's difinteredness that pervaded the conduct of all concerned. As few only of the chosen were admitted to a participation of the public spoils, the shares were good and comfortable. To the general aggregate body of their adherents they gave nothing, except boundlefs praife, fome lean baronetages, and a generous and liberal indulgence, without degree, licence, or diploma, to preferibe for and practife on the difeafes and infirmities of the conflitution. Yet all were pleafed, and addreffes of thanks to the crown flowed from every quarter.

But fliott are the friendfhips of interefied ambition, though cemented by accommodations very repugnant to their profeffions, and very unbecoming the impoverified frate of the national finances, acknowledged and even attempted to be jutified by both parties. No fooner does an object come in fight, and in probability foon to be open to the claims of each party; an object great in emolument, and in power fupreme; to which both pretend a right, and but one alone can enjoy; then firft we hear of differences of opinion great and decifive in public matters of high import; then all trious band it. James's ; ovetoulnefs TH and his ofs of time . Honours and emoluout to the th great corflice; never each other's lifinterednefs ed. As few rticipation of and comfortf their adhendlefs praife, ind liberal indiploma, to and infirmiplvafed, and d from every field ambition, ery repugnant ing the impoacknowledged a parties. No ad in probabiliparty; an obfupreme; to e alone can enf opinion great import; then all [ 29 ]

ail the imputed virtues difappear, and in their place fucceed bitternefs, rage, and revilings, with dark and fufpicions, and names too harfh for me to ufe. Now all is uproar, and factious canvaffing. Promifes, honours, and all the little wealth that is left, are profufely fquandered on each bold abettor of party. From every profession orators are fought, and retained on terms almost as high as the fublidies we used to pay to foreign princes ; but most from that profession to which long practice has made it familiar to varnifh over the errors, to make each crooked deviation from right reason, of the human head or heart, appear to be ftraight; to puzzle without convincing; to perplex without proving; and without applying to our paffions, by mere dint of length and drynefs of argument to force from us a reluctant acquiefcence, which our understandings, made tame by weariness and difguft, would fain deny, but dare not. For this idle war of words, of replies, dupplies, tripplies, and rejoinders, cach fide are provided with a long-robed phalanx, that cofts more than would maintain a first-rate fhip of the line to fight our battles.

THE great, the fimple, the felf-denying virtues that make nations great, and keep them fo, are all out of fafhion, out of date; and in my confeience I believe, a man would gain more credit, and certainly would be much more fure of preferment, by an ingenious rhetorical apology for the want of every human virtue, than by poffelling, without the power of announcing them, every great and good quality that can adorn human nature. Where the treafure lies, there the heart will be alfo; and if to fpeak at all hazards, as long as a man can ftand upon his legs; if to tell a tale, like that of an idiot, full of found and fury, but meaning nothing; which, when tricked

[ 30 ]

ed up and arranged in twenty puffing publications, fcarce rifes to common fenfe; if this is the funn, the ultimate reach of human excellence, and the fure path to every honour and emolument the flate has to beftow, we fhall foon, alas ! all be nothing better than fophifts and rhetoricians.

YET I do not mean to deny that oratory is an ingenious art, and very uncommon to be found in any degree of perfection : I only mean to bring under queftion its all-fufficiency, independent of those qualifications that used to merit, and used to ensure the confidence of mankind to govern the affairs of the ftate. It is recorded, that a man came before Alexander the Great, who, by a justness of eye, and by great practice, had acquired fuch a dexterity of hand, shat at a confiderable diftance he could hit and fix a pea upon a needle's point. This illuftrious conqueror did not call this fon of ingenuity to the head of his councils, did not give him the difpofal of his fleets and armies; he only rewarded him, by ordering a bufhel of peafe to be given him. If talking floridly and fluently about great actions, is equivalent to the doing of them, very few will be performed.

And thus the native huc of refolution Is ticklied o'er with the pale caft of thought; And enterprizes of great pith and moment With this regard, their currents turn awry, And lofe the name of action.

LIKE the Greek monks at the fiege of Conflantinople, who, inftead of manning the battlements in defence of their country against the common eneny, were nightly cutting one another's throats in civil broil, on the difpute, fo important to the welfare of mankind, whether the Son was composed of the fame, or of ications, ium, the the fure te has to g better is an ind in any g under nofe quanfure the s of the ore Alex-, and by of hand, ind fix a onqueror ad of his his fleets rdering a g floridly nt to the ight; ent vry,

Conftantiements in on enemy, civil broil, cof manfame, or of

[ 31 ]

of a lubftance like unto that of the Father; till Mahomet ...ormed the place, and put an end to their difputes and to them, to the Greek religion, and to the Greek empire: thus we, torn into pieces by paltry diffentions about place and power; perplexed by plans of conftitutional purity and reformation, about which no two people can agree, yet both parties feem to favour, becaufe both parties with to make ufe of the worthy, well-meaning promoters of them, to retain or to acquire power: thus we, I fay, alive to thefe alone, dead to all the reft, fhall become an eafy prey to the ambition of the houfe of Bourbon; our laws, our liberties, our conftitution, and our empire be involved in one common ruin; our fall unpitied, and our name forgot.

Culhorn, Oct. 26th, 1782.

THE END.

